

Data Protection – Consent to Store and Use Member Data

In compliance with GDPR, the General European Data Protection Regulation, Zonta International, its districts, clubs and agents store, host and otherwise process the personal data supplied by all members when registering for membership or renewal of membership of Zonta International.

This includes information provided in connection with attendance to Zonta events such as convention, district meeting and information provided during the nominating process. This data will be stored at headquarters in Oak Brook, USA, backed up in the cloud, but also locally on club and district databases. By registering or renewing membership, members are giving their consent that the personal information they have provided can be stored and used to communicate information relevant to the membership of Zonta International.

Zonta International does not trade, sell or rent your personal information to third parties, unless required by law. The data is used to allow members access to the Zonta International website, to communicate with members by email and to distribute documents and information relevant to membership in clubs, committees, boards or other Zonta International and Zonta Foundation for Women volunteer groups.

Members may opt out of having their personal information stored by Zonta International and Zonta Foundation for Women but would then automatically opt out of access to the website and to receiving emails or other Zonta information. Members may change their personal information by sending an email to memberrecords@zonta.org or by mail or by using the member update feature in the My Zonta section of the website.
